REPORTS

1. Latah Human Rights Task Force Report.

The presentation for the Art and Essay contest award winners was held in person on May 1st at the 1912 Center. Forty-nine people attended. There were nine individual awards and one class award. All winners’ submissions are on display at the library. The task force will be at the Farmer’s Market on July 31st and the drive-by food drive will be held at East City Park. Volunteers are needed to help at the market table and to help publicize this event. The task force is working with UI on potential MLK Breakfast speakers and 2022 Art and Essay Contest topics. The theme of the breakfast will be the “right to education.”

2. Inclusive Communities Month.

Inclusive Communities Month will be held in September. The theme of “In This Together” was suggested to open up creative possibilities and approach this topic from different angles. Some suggestions included:

- Education – to tie in with the MLK Breakfast’s theme
- Equality
- Inclusion
- Impact of COVID on low income and communities of color
- Anti-Asian violence
- Anti-Semitism
- Restorative practices
- Healing/workshop for community members to help deal with hate and stress encountered in the last year.
- Food security issues – co-sponsor with Moscow Food Co-op

There may be an Inclusive Communities Potluck at the end of the month as well.

3. Bias Reporting System.

Faunce provided an overview of the bias reporting process:

- Incident is reported by using the police department’s non-emergency phone number
- Bias report codes, which are already in place, are assigned.
- City Attorney Bautista receives the report of the incident.
- If it is a crime, it will be forwarded to the police. If it is not a crime, Bautista will follow up.
- Bautista will issue a quarterly report for Commission review.

When an incident is reported in the newspaper's Police Daily Log, there are no names and only general location information. If a public records request under the Freedom of Information Act is submitted, names and addresses of the reporting party will be shown on the report. Pullman Police Department and other police departments have used this type of system.

Reports may be anonymous; however, this will not allow for follow-up. Information will be used for statistical purposes and to become aware of what the issues are. When the system is finalized, it will be publicized through a press release, the City's Facebook page, and word of mouth.

Training will be provided by the Commission to the community. Dispatchers will be trained on attaining appropriate information from reporting parties. Chief Fry said reports of bias in regard to race, gender, etc. will be reviewed to see if it has elements that meet criminal activity per the Idaho Code. If it does, then a person can be charged criminally. Bautista will be asked to attend a Commission meeting to talk about the system.

4. HRC at the Market.

The HRC has signed up for Saturday tabling events at the market on May 29, June 26, and August 21. Volunteers are needed for these events.

5. Voices of Moscow.

There was no report.

6. Community Garden Ideas.

The Hamilton-Lowe community garden is full with a waiting list. The Commission would like to find more gardening plots and get more people involved in training and gardening. Debbie Kadlec is interested and available to consult or be a partner in helping to find a place to expand the garden and find more plots, etc.

7. Food Insecurity.

The Westside Food Bank had a grand opening and is still in need of food and volunteers. Interested individuals can sign up on their website. They will be having a rummage sale soon. The weekend Food for Kids' program will be starting up again and will provide weekend lunches for children.
