3. Analysis of Impediments Survey

The Commission Chair made a few remarks regarding the differences of the results from the 2022 survey versus the previous survey. It was noted that there were more homeowners who responded, as well as people with pets. Baukol was impressed with the number of people who took the time to provide additional comments. A survey with comments regarding an experience where discrimination based on sexual orientation had occurred. Moses mentioned that they frequently encounter people with similar stories regarding discrimination, and that there are issues surrounding gender inequality and subsequent discrimination throughout the State of Idaho.

The Commission continued to discuss the survey results, and Holcomb-Hawkes pointed out that 80% of the completed surveys came from homes without children. Force was impressed with the 20% return rate for the survey, and the Commission again brought up the possibility of selecting a couple questions from the survey to include in the City-wide Commission Survey. Staff will request more information regarding a timeline for the Analysis of Impediments survey from City Administration and report back.

4. Appaloosa Mobile Home Park – Olivia Moses

Moses provided a report about what has been happening with the Appaloosa Mobile Home Park, and conveyed that the residents are not interested in having the Commission or City Council tour the site. They advised the Commissioners that they could go independently, but the residents requested City government do not get involved. Parker mentioned that the current Mobile Home Park owner has offered to give City Council a tour, but is worried that they will walk away with only one side of the story. The Commissioners continued to discuss what has been happening at Appaloosa. Staff indicated that there would be no action necessary from the Commission today.

The Commissioners discussed affordable housing issues and requested that Staff prepare a presentation about the City's Zoning Code, to be included on the next meeting's agenda.
